PROHIBITION IN AMERICA

Spirited: Prohibition in America now open to the public!

Spirited explores the history of prohibition from the dawn of the temperance movement to the repeal of the constitutional amendment in 1933. Discover how the 18th Amendment ushered in the cultural revolution of the roaring 20s and how it still affects current liquor laws.

Women/Jackson

Ever wonder why some drinks seem “girly” and are marketed especially to women? Or why there’s such a thing as Ladies’ Night, yet also a double standard about how much women should drink? In this talk, Michelle McClellan, Ph.D. traces women’s drinking practices throughout American history, from colonial times (when per capita consumption was shockingly high by modern standards) through the Victorian era to the present.

Jackson & The Roaring 20s

November 14, 2020 – October 17, 2021

The 1920s was a decade driven by prosperity, shifting social norm, and new technology. This exhibit explores some of the major individuals and events which made Jackson, Michigan roar during the 1920s. The exhibit was developed by Ella Sharp Museum as a supplement to the traveling exhibit Spirited: Prohibition in America.
